

SLOAN PITCHES POORLY AND ALL-CHINESE WIN

(From Monday Advertiser.)

All-Chinese 8, P. A. C's 7.
St. Louis 8, Asahi 2.

Two surprises were sprung on the faithful at Athletic Park yesterday afternoon. First, the All-Chinese beat the Portuguese Athletic Club with the redoubtable Toddington Sloan on the mound by a score of 8 to 7 in a twelve-inning game and the Saints after trying for six long weeks got into the winning column, defeating the Asahi by a score of 8 to 2.

In remarking that the All-Chinese beat Mr. Toddington Sloan, it would be better to say that Mr. Toddington Sloan defeated himself. The big fellow who shouldered a gun for Uncle Sam when not exerting on the ball field, was as erratic as a March hare. His poor pitching and likewise poor handling of the white rock gave the All-Chinese a half a dozen runs.

His backstop, Master De Rego was also somewhat erratic and his wild throwing to the bases with a dropped ball at the plate, allowed the Chinese to knot up the score in the eleventh inning when they looked beaten.

As to the rest of the citizens wearing the blue and white of the P. A. C's, they played good ball and barring a miscue here and there gave Mr. Toddington Sloan great support.

For the All-Chinese, Mr. Long Akana stood much in the limelight and he more than any other man working for W. Tin Chong, won the game for the Orientals.

Saints Finally Win.
In the closer of the double-header the Saints showed a vast improvement over previous efforts with the bat and in the fielding line, and when the final count had been made in their game with the River Nuuanu were on the long end of an 8 to 2 score.

The pride of Kaimuki, Francis Bernado Joy, gave way to the elongated Janzen in the pitcher's box for the Saints, and the blonde-headed youth pitched a first-class ball game, barring a bit of wildness. Peterson, who replaced Janzen at first, gathered two timely doubles and felled in first-class style, so the game worked well. The rest of the boys were more peppy, too, and showed an inclination to work harder and more carefully, and the team is a whole lot better than it was a few weeks ago.

Hawaii 6, Coast Defense 3.

One of those ball games which fail to send a thrill through the red-blooded arteries of the baseball fans but instead send a chill through your veins was staged at Athletic Park yesterday afternoon, the Hawaii gathering from the Coast Defense aggregation by a score of 6 to 3.

Young Joe Plater was the gunner in chief for the Hawaii and outside of a glove and a very serious looking face, Joe had but little on the ball. Still what he did have was plenty enough to keep Van Dusen's men from gathering many hits and likewise many runs.

For the soldier laddies, it was "Handsome Jack" Lawson who did the bending and Jackie had little more than Joe, in fact it was a toss up which pitched the better game of worse. On one side, the support was fairly good while on the other side, it was like a sieve and some of the runs, in fact all of the runs were gifts.

Van Dusen's soldier boys took the first swing at the ball and Mr. O'Hara was out at first on a grounder to Chicklingworth. Johnson gave White a chance to break into the Larry Doyle class as a fielder but White bobbed and Johnson was safe. When Mangum, or Mango as his pals called him, poked a triple to center, Johnson scored.

In the second round of the battle, Thomas took free transportation to first, romped over to second on a passed ball and then hit the rubber when White again felled the ball with his feet instead of his hands.

In their half of the spasm, the Hawaii tied up the score and it was a shame to take those two runs.

Following are the figures of the downfall of the C. D.'s, and likewise the ascension of the Hawaii:

Momentous Change in Map of Europe Is Promised

ST. PETERSBURG, August 15.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—Poland restored and reunited is the promise held out in the name of the Czar of Russia by the Grand Duke Nicholas, provided the Poles show their loyalty to the idea by enrolling under the standard of Russia in the war of Europe. Should the Poles of Austria and Germany throw in their lot with the Poles of Russia and assist in the defeat of Germany and Austria, the segments of the once great kingdom will be reunited and Poland will appear again upon the map of Europe.

POLAND WILL BE BORN AGAIN.
In making his announcement, in the name of the Czar, the Grand Duke said:
"One hundred and fifty years ago the living body of Poland was torn apart, but the soul survived and Poland has lived in hope that the hour of regeneration and reconciliation with Russia would arrive. The Russian army now brings you solemn news of this reconciliation."

"Russia expects only loyalty, to which her history binds you. She believes the sword which struck her enemies at Gruenwald is not yet rusted. Under her co-scepter Poland will be born again, free in religion, in language and autonomous."
"Russia is now marching to arms from the Pacific ocean to the North Sea!"

THE POLAND THAT WAS.
The Poland that was dismembered in 1792, against which dismemberment Thaddeus of Warsaw led an insurrection against the Russian and Austrian troops, included Galicia, now belonging to Austria; Posen and Silesia, now belonging to Germany, and the great area now known as Russian Poland, of which Warsaw is the geographic center.

Japanese Squadron May Be Headed For Honolulu

Honoluluans need not be greatly surprised or alarmed if within the next few days or a week a Japanese squadron arrives in these waters. Such an event is entirely probable by reason of the Japanese government having announced its determination to stand by the treaty with Great Britain. Cable advices state that the Japanese fleet has already sailed.

The steamships Niagara and Marama, flying the British flag, and the Seijo Maru, under the Japanese flag, are now detained in Honolulu awaiting instructions.

The Toyo Kisen Kaisha Steamship Company, operating the Maru ships, announces the detention of the Seijo Maru is due to the fact that the vessel is "two days ahead of schedule."

The Seijo Maru has been ordered to remain at San Francisco for five weeks, according to wireless dispatches to the Admiralty. The reason given is that the "machinery is in need of repairs."

It is now entirely probable that a portion of the Japanese fleet will be an early arrival in this part of the Pacific for the purpose of enabling the British and Japanese shipping to sail without fear of the German cruisers, known to be somewhere between Honolulu and San Francisco. To patrol the Pacific commerce lanes would be a natural portion of the help the Japanese fleet could render Japan's allies.

Niagara and Marama Are Joined in Their Watchful Waiting by Japanese Freighter—Passengers Play Deck Sports and Discuss War News.

Bitting at anchor within a mile of the harbor entrance, the passengers aboard eagerly awaiting the signal from their commander to up anchor and proceed on their voyage to the Antipodes, the Canadian-Australian steamer Niagara is marking time, while T. H. Davies & Co., the agents for the steamer here are awaiting orders from the Admiralty for the Niagara to proceed Australiawards.

Near her lies the Japanese steamer Seijo Maru, "just putting in time." Although several messages were received by cable yesterday from the main office of the Union Steamship Company at Dunedin, New Zealand, the only information contained in them given out was that the Niagara was to remain here until orders to proceed were received through the British consul.

Time for Deck Sports.
The passengers aboard are taking their enforced stay here philosophically and amused themselves yesterday indulging in the usual deck sports and other entertainments common on shipboard. A number of the passengers and crew spent the day in fishing and several large catches are reported. None of the passengers is allowed ashore nor are visitors from shore allowed aboard. Captain Kells is doing everything possible for the comfort and convenience of his passengers and although some of those aboard are annoyed at not being allowed shore liberty, the majority feel that the measure is a wise one as it is not known when orders will be received to sail, and in this event it is probable that some of the passengers might be left ashore with no definite assurance when they ever could reach the Colonies.

Marama in Harbor.
Under similar circumstances the Marama, bound to Vancouver from Australia is tied up at pier 15. Although the passengers aboard are allowed ashore, permission is given by Captain Crawford with the proviso that they keep in touch with the vessel at all times, in the event of hurried orders being received by the Marama. Within a biscuit's throw of the decks of the Marama, the German steamer Setos is lying also awaiting orders. Captain Karsten has received no orders from his owners in Hamburg as to the destination of the vessel and as her cargo of four million feet of lumber cannot be discharged here the stay of the Setos in this port appears to be indefinite. In the event of no sailing orders being received by the Marama before Tuesday, she will be shifted to an anchorage outside of the harbor in order that her berth may be used by the steamer Matsonia, due here from San Francisco on Tuesday morning.

Transportation increases the cost of everything you buy; fertilizers are no exception. It costs you as much to haul a low grade as it does a high quality fertilizer. The difference is this: If the high grade is twice as strong as the other, you have to haul only one half as much and your cost of hauling is cut in half. IT ALWAYS PAYS TO BUY HIGH GRADE FERTILIZER.
